This past Thursday, I took my wife out for Valentines Day for the first time in 19 years. It was a small gesture towards repaying the love that she has given me in my life. I used to think that participating in Hallmark Holidays was a waste of time and money. I didn't like showing affection or giving gifts because of a feeling that I had to do it. But lately, I have started to believe that there is never a bad time to show love and affection for those who mean the most to us.

It reminded me of how often we are encouraged to love another in the Bible:

And now I give you a new commandment: love one another. As I have loved you, so you must love one another. (John 13:34)

Do not take revenge on others or continue to hate them, but love your neighbors as you love yourself. I am the Lord. (Leviticus 19:18)

Above everything, love one another earnestly, because love covers over many sins. (1 Peter 4:8)

Be under obligation to no one—the only obligation you have is to love one another. Whoever does this has obeyed the Law. (Romans 13:8)

My children, our love should not be just words and talk; it must be true love, which shows itself in action. (1 John 3:18)

Be always humble, gentle, and patient. Show your love by being tolerant with one another. Do your best to preserve the unity which the Spirit gives by means of the peace that binds you together. (Ephesians 4:2-3)

We don't need an excuse to love one another. We only need excuses not to. Don't waste an opportunity to do the very thing we have been called to do.

Love you all,
Adam

As I have loved you, love one another.
